What clothes do you like to wear?

At some point, you've probably looked (A) old photos of people and asked yourself, "Why did they wear that? What were they thinking?" The people in the photo probably thought that they looked great! The truth is, nothing stays the same forever, especially in the world of fashion. What's cool today will be ugly before long. What we like to wear changes all the time.

A century ago, many men --- (B) businessmen (C) taxi drivers --- wore suits to work. Even young boys regularly wore suits and ties. Women didn't just wear skirts or dresses when they wanted to dress up. They wore them all the time --- even if they were just staying home!

Over time, casual clothes replaced formal clothes. For example, jeans are very popular today. They were first made for workers who needed pants with strong fabric that didn't tear easily. (D) 1873, tailor Jacob Davis and businessman Levi Strauss created denim pants they called overalls because people wore them over their clothes. Cowboys wore denim jeans and, thanks to the Western movies of the 1930s, many people began wearing them. Today, jeans and a sweatshirt are practically a uniform for teens around the world.

Like clothes, shoes have also changed over time. You may prefer to wear sneakers, but in the past both men and women wore shoes (E) high heels. In the early eighteenth century, King Louis XIV of France started wearing tights with red high-heeled shoes. This was the fashion for nearly a century before men began wearing more practical shoes (F) heels.

Things change. You might think your clothes are fashionable now, but if a hundred years from now people see a photo of you, they might just ask, “Why did they wear that?”

Mary : Hi, Yuri. What's up?

Yuri : Hi, this is the pamphlet for the school festival. Look! Many clubs are going to have performances on stage. I'm so excited! You are in the orchestra club, right?

Mary : Yes. I'm going to play the cymbals at the concert. Our orchestra will play for about an hour, but I'll have only one chance to play the cymbals during that time.

Yuri : Do you feel sad about that?

Mary : Not at all! I know every sound is important for beautiful music, so I'm proud of my part! We practice every day except Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

Yuri : Great! I'm really looking forward to seeing your concert.

Mary : Thanks. Why don't we have lunch together around noon after the concert?

Yuri : Actually, I'll have no time to eat until the cooking show is finished. I'm going to help with the show as an assistant. Also, I'll have to prepare for the food stands in the morning.

Mary : Then, let's have a late lunch together after your cooking show is finished. By the way, what will the cooking show be like?

Yuri : Well, we are still thinking about the food we will make. Could you give us any ideas?

Mary : Let's see...Why don't you show how to make a roll cake from rice flour instead of regular flour? It will be nice if some of the people in the audience can try making and eating it.

Yuri : Sounds nice! Thanks for the great idea. I'll send an e-mail to my friends about it tonight.
